

Winner: Karl Questel photographed this male Lesser Antillean Iguana (Iguana delicatissima) on Fourchue Island. Fourteen individuals of this endangered endemic species were relocated to Fourchue from the island of St. Barthélemy by the Nature Reserve St. Barthélemy and Association ALSOPHIS to bolster a population threatened by hybridization with the Green Iguana (Iguana iguana).

Runner-up: This Kilimanjaro Two-horned Chameleon (Kinyongia tavetana) posed for James Quinn Brantley beside a hiking trail in Loitokitok, Kenya in 2010. These chameleons are gradually losing their habitat to deforestation and illegal logging. If these forests and lizards are not protected soon, it may be too late.
