

U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service Illinois Chorus Frog Wetland Workshop

This hands-on training will introduce you to highly effective, practical, and low-cost techniques for creating or restoring natural and native vernal pond wetlands. You'll learn how to design and restore wetlands that provide habitat for threatened and endangered species, amphibians, reptiles, and a diversity of birds. This workshop will specifically focus on building one or more prairie wetlands for the Illinois chorus frog. Attendees will learn how to select suitable locations for building wetlands, test soil texture, determine groundwater elevation, choose appropriate construction techniques, work with heavy equipment operators, control erosion and non-native plants, and establish native plants.

Renowned instructor, Tom Biebighauser, teaches wetland restoration workshops worldwide. Participants actively engage in design and construction of natural-appearing and functioning wetlands.
